

1. Authors

Catherine Didier-Fèvre

Geographer

Born in 1970, Catherine Didier-Fèvre, a lecturer in history and geography, defended her thesis entitled "The place to be? Vivre et bouger dans l'entre-deux: jeunesse et mobilité dans le périurbain" in Paris Ouest Nanterre la Défense, after four years under the direction of Monique Poulot (LAVUE) and Lionel Rougé (ESO) in September 2015. Her teaching experience in a periurban high school on the outskirts of Ile de France sparked her interest in the mobility of these students, adolescents living in areas with little public transportation.

Projects with the Forum

The place to be? Living and moving in intermediate spaces: Young people and mobility in peri-urban spaces

Catherine Didier-Fèvre

Publications with the Forum

The place to be? Living and moving in intermediate spaces: Young people and mobility in peri-urban spaces

Catherine Didier-Fèvre