Bruno Marzloff

Sociologue

The sociologist Bruno Marzloff entered the field of mobility through the question of time, a rich parallel to open up new insights. Chronos, the foresight firm he founded in the early 1990s, has also been an active think tank for removing transportation from its purely technical perimeter. Along with others, he has contributed to opening up mobility to sociology, urban planning and the question of work, with his book Sans bureau fixe, among others. He is now pursuing his reflections within La Fabrique des Mobilités, of which he is president. Demobility is of course the subject of a cluster.
