Most tourists want to go somewhere. They seek a change in the environment. The 2018 Nobel Prize in Literature was awarded to Olga Tokarczuk,

Mobility

For the Mobile Lives Forum, mobility is understood as the process of how individuals travel across distances in order to deploy through time and space the activities that make up their lifestyles. These travel practices are embedded in socio-technical systems, produced by transport and communication industries and techniques, and by normative discourses on these practices, with considerable social, environmental and spatial impacts.
