

1. Authors

David Tyfield

Économiste

Dr David Tyfield is a Reader at Lancaster University and Executive Director of the Joint Institute for the Environment (JIE), Guangzhou. His research explores the interaction of political economy, social change and developments in science, technology and innovation, with a particular focus on issues of low-carbon transition in China, especially urban e-mobility, which he has been studying since 2007.

Publications with the Forum

Electric mobility and the Chinese Middle Classes

Video by David Tyfield

China: Time For a green revolution

Video by David Tyfield