

1. Authors

Kevin Anderson

Researcher in environment sciences

Kevin Anderson is the Deputy Director of the Tyndall Centre for Climate Change Research. He holds a joint chair in Energy and Climate Change at the School of Mechanical, Aerospace and Civil Engineering at the University of Manchester and School of Environmental Sciences at the University of East Anglia; and is an honorary lecturer in Environmental Management at the Manchester Business School. He is an adviser to the British Government (as of 2009) on climate change.

Publications with the Forum

Does aviation have a place in a low-carbon world ?

Video by Kevin Anderson

Mobility and climate: a need for action

Video by Kevin Anderson