2014 marks the fifty-year anniversary of one of the 20th century's most influential texts - Understanding Media by Marshall McLuhan not only introduced the media-as-the-message, it presented the world with the metaphor of the global village.

Half a century after the publication of this revolutionary text, The Mediated City – Los Angeles – Conference seeks to explore the multiple ways in which the city of today is experienced, perceived, represented and constructed as a 'mediated' phenomenon.

Narrative:

Today, we are perfectly attuned to the photo-realistic imagery of design presentations; daily experience through social media presents moving imagery of the commercialized urban landscape; and still watch the 'city symphonies' of the new generation of filmmakers. We are familiar with the digitally laden experience of the contemporary public transport ride, and still see 'the city' as a site, subject and protagonist in cinematic productions from California to Mumbai. In this context, urbanists imagine the future of an interconnected 'smart city' and the design process itself becomes mediated, as architects simulate user behavior as a form of 'space syntax'.

As McLuhan identified in 1964, today's global village is a place of simultaneous experience; a site for overlapping material and electronic effects; a place not so much altered by the content of a medium, but rather, a space transformed by the very nature of medias themselves.

For some, this is little more than the inevitable evolution of urban space in the digital age. For others, it represents the city's liberation from the condition of stasis. For scaremongers, it's a nightmare scenario in which the difference between the virtual and the real, the electronic and the material, the recorded and the lived, becomes impossible to identify. In every case, corporeal engagement is placed at one remove from the physical world.

Themes:

The intention of this conference is to bring together people from various disciplines to explore how their work and their ideas and their practices overlap and inform each other. Architects, urban designers, filmmakers, animators, theorists, academics, artists, web-designers and programmers will share their work and their positions.

positions.

In this context, The Mediated City – Los Angeles – Conference will not stipulate or prescribe themes beyond interest in openly and creatively exploring the multiple ways in which the city can be said to be 'mediated

It welcomes theoretical examinations of the cinematic city; practical debates on the architect's role in film production; conversations on the use of apps to navigate 'metropoli'; considerations on the simulation of urban environment; debates about the nature of the 'virtual' building; and discussions on the digital map of the world by companies like Google – and much more. It is anticipated that conversations across disciplines will evolve and emerge through the juxtaposition of multiple perspectives.

Informations pratiques :

Key dates – Los Angeles:

15 Feb 2014	Deadline for abstracts / initial proposals
01 Mar 2014	Feedback on abstracts / initial proposals
15 June 2014	Deadline for full papers / detailed proposals
15 July 2014	Feedback on full papers/ detailed proposals
01 Sep 2014	Resubmission of full papers
01 Oct 2014	Conference – Los Angeles (Woodbury University)

Formats:

The Mediated City – Los Angeles – Conference revolves around the standard conference format of short presentations. A book publication is anticipated in collaboration with Cambridge Scholars Publishing. However, the organizers propose a range of activity formats such as those listed below and invites delegates to make their own alternative proposals:

Conference Paper.....	– Standard 20 minute presentations
Panel Discussions.....	– 30-60 minute debates on selected themes
Workshop Activities.....	– Time limited collaborative sessions
Screenings / Q&As.....	– Films, videos, documentaries etc.
Product / Book launches.....	– Presentations of new and alternative ideas

Delegates wishing to submit papers or make proposals for any of the above (or other) activities, at The Mediated City – Los Angeles – Conference should submit their paper abstracts or alternative format proposals using the Abstract Submission Form (http://architecturempsf.files.wordpress.com/2013/09/the-mediated-city_los-angeles_abstract-submission-form.docx)
